Into The Sun, which follows last year's critically acclaimed A Day In Nashville and 2013's Bringing It Back Home, explores the breadth of Ford's sophisticated, visionary writing and playing, creating a new chapter in his brilliant musical history.

The album features a coterie of guests: Allman Brothers guitarist and Gov't Mule frontman Warren Haynes on "High Heels And Throwing Things," slide guitar guru Sonny Landreth on "So Long 4 U," Americana and blues icon Keb' Mo' and pedal steel wizard Robert Randolph on "Justified," vocal sensation ZZ Ward on "Breath Of Me," and along with gritty Southern rock newcomer Tyler Bryant on "Stone Cold Heaven." Niko Bolas, whose credits include Neil Young, John Mayer and Keith Richards, engineered.

"Justified" is a sheer gas with Keb' Mo' and Ford trading tongue-in-cheek vocal lines as Randolph adds soaring pedal steel punctuation over Jim Cox's purposefully wobbly honky tonk piano. --- guitarplayer.com
