Doc Severinsen and His Orchestra - Tempestuous Trumpet (1961)

1. After You've Gone 2. When It's Sleepy Time Down South 3. Night in Tunisia 4. Tenderly 5. I Can't Get Started 6. And The Angels Sing 7. Baubles, Bangles and Beads 8. Stardust 9. Mack The Knife 10. You Made Me Love You 11. Sleepy Lagoon 12. Sugar Blues Alto Saxophone – Phil Bodner, Toots Mondello Arranged By, Trombone – Bobby Byrne Art Direction – Charles E. Murphy Bass – Bob Haggart Guitar – Tony Mottola Trombone – Frank Rehak Trumpet – Doc Severinsen

Doc Severinson spent 25 years as the colorful musical director for Johnny Carson on The Tonight Show. Severinson played cornet and trumpet in big bands in the 1940s (touring with Benny Goodman among others), and got most of his work in the studio as a sideman and soloist. At NBC he won a job with Steve Allen and he began working for The Tonight Show in 1962, the same year that Carson began his run as the show's host. Severinsen became the show's musical director in 1967 and stayed until Carson retired in 1992. (Severinsen's outrageously flashy shirts and leisure suits were a long-running joke on the show.) Known for his brassy sound and cheerful demeanor, Severinsen has recorded dozens of albums and appeared with pop orchestras across the United States. ---infoplease.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex 4shared mega mediafire zalivalka cloudmailru uplea

back