

Mighty Sam McClain – Journey (1998)

Written by bluesever

Thursday, 19 May 2016 15:58 -

Mighty Sam McClain – Journey (1998)

01. I'm a Man (McClain / Giftos) 5:43 02. Thank You (McClain / Giftos) 4:49 03. Change Is Gonna Come (Sam Cook) 6:51 04. New Man In Town (McClain) 5:40 05. No More Tears (McClain / Giftos) 5:20 06. Mr. So & So (McClain) 3:33 07. Time Is Running Out (Jack Perricone) 3:51 08. I'm Yours (McClain / Platt) 3:40 09. Other Side Of The Tracks (Sandra McClain / Peter Giftos) 7:27 10. Prove It To Me (McClain / Perricone) 4:42 11. Hanging On The Cross (McClain / Katz) 5:44 12. Somebody Help Me (McClain / Papageorge) 4:29
Mighty Sam McClain, vocals Julien Kasper, guitar Bruce Katz, piano & Hammond B-3 Tim Ingles, bass Zac Casher, drums Walter Platt, trumpet and horn arrangements Joe Casano, trumpet Ted DeCola, tenor sax Kenny Wenzel, trombone + Peter Giftos, guitar (2), Rhythm guitar (1) George PapaGeorge, additional keyboards (3,5,9,11,12)

Singing praises to God and sharing his love for others despite having faced tragedy and setbacks in his past, McClain is rather reminiscent of the Biblical character, Job (who despite losing everything, still praised God, and then was blessed with twice as much wealth and a bigger family than before). McClain's life journey has often been rocky; he has faced rejection by his family, survived substance abuse, and been ignored by the music industry despite his hard-working attempts to gain attention. But turning to God, he remained faithful and is now blessed with a critically acclaimed career and a loving family. This album shares all of this, and his honest, retrospective outlook wins hands down. Take a look at "No More Tears," where he takes the familiar line of "walking the backstreets," translating it to his life experiences -- feeling frustrated, moving from place to place without seeing his situation improve. This honesty transcends to the supporting musicians, who give from-the-bottom-of-the-heart solos without sounding mushy, from bassist Tim Ingles' funky jazz feel on "I'm Yours," to Bruce Katz thumping the ivories or the B-3. ---Char Ham, Rovi download (mp3 @320 kbs):

Mighty Sam McClain – Journey (1998)

Written by bluesever

Thursday, 19 May 2016 15:58 -

salefiles yandex 4shared mega mediafire zalivalka cloudmailru uplea

back