

Indigenous – Indigenous featuring Mato Nanji (2012)

Written by bluesever

Thursday, 07 June 2012 09:41 - Last Updated Thursday, 18 February 2021 21:44

Indigenous – Indigenous featuring Mato Nanji (2012)

01 – Free Yourself, Free Your Mind 02 – Everywhere I Go 03 – Jealousy 04 – Someone Like You 05 – I Was Wrong to Leave You 06 – No Matter What It Takes 07 – Storm 08 – Find My Way 09 – All Those Lies 10 – Way I Feel 11 – Wake Up 12 – By My Side 13 – When Tomorrow Comes Mato Nanji - Lead Guitar, Lead Vocals American Horse - percussion Jesse Bradman - organ, backing vocals Jeff Martin - drums Steve Evans - bass Jonny Lang - Lead Guitar, Lead Vocals (1)

The Native American blues-rock group Indigenous consists of three brothers, Mato Nanji (vocals and guitar), Pte (bass), and Horse (percussion), and their sister, Wanbdi (drums, vocals). The Nakota Nation members grew up on South Dakota's Yankton Indian Reservation and were inspired by their father, Greg Zephier, who had been a musician in the '60s and '70s and later became a spokesperson for Native American rights. The group released their 1998 debut album Things We Do on Pachyderm Records; the video for the title track was directed by Chris Eyre, who also directed the award-winning Native American film Smoke Signals. The group released Blues This Morning EP and Live at Pachyderm Studios in 1999, while winning acclaim from critics and artists like Bonnie Raitt, the Indigo Girls and Jackson Browne. The Circle followed in 2000. --- Heather Phares, allmusic.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto gett solidfiles

Indigenous – Indigenous featuring Mato Nanji (2012)

Written by bluesever

Thursday, 07 June 2012 09:41 - Last Updated Thursday, 18 February 2021 21:44

back