

Aynsley Lister - Tower Session (2010)

Written by bluesever

Sunday, 10 February 2013 17:08 - Last Updated Friday, 21 August 2020 14:39

Aynsley Lister - Tower Session (2010)

01. Soundman - 4:13 02. Sugar Low - 4:17 03. Purple Rain - 9:44 04. Quiet Boy - 3:48
05. Early Morning - 5:53 06. What's It All About - 6:50 07. Hurricane - 6:55 08. Hero - 6:02
09. With Me Tonight - 9:33 10. Crosstown Traffic - 5:02 11. In The Morning - 4:35

Aynsley Lister – guitar, vocals Midus Guerreiro – bass, vocals Dan Healey – keyboards Simon Small – drums, vocals

Tower Sessions is the new “live” album from Aynsley Lister. The album was recorded in the studio, but gives the same performance you would get at an Aynsley Lister concert. Tower Sessions is Lister’s best work to date.

The album consists of some of Aynsley’s top songs including “What’s It All About,” “Hurricane,” and “Hero,” but also contains some covers including Prince’s “Purple Rain” and “Crosstown Traffic” by Jimi Hendrix. “Purple Rain” is an absolute masterpiece. Coming in at just under 10 minutes the performance is the best of Lister’s career.

Another track that stands out is “Early Morning Dew,” which was on the Equilibrium album. The song was reworked a bit with a more upbeat electric version it and sounds fantastic.

Equilibrium was Aynsleys best album, but Tower Sessions has surpassed it. The album plays great from start to finish and has the “live” feel. Lister has been one of the most underrated artists in the Blues-Rock genre for a long time, but Tower Sessions shows he belongs at the top. --- bluesrockreview.com

Aynsley Lister - Tower Session (2010)

Written by bluesever

Sunday, 10 February 2013 17:08 - Last Updated Friday, 21 August 2020 14:39

download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto gett bayfiles

back