

Gary Moore - Blues Alive (1993)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 19 January 2015 16:52 - Last Updated Friday, 29 January 2021 14:30

Gary Moore - Blues Alive (1993)

01. Cold Day In Hell 02. Walking By Myself 03. Story Of The Blues 04. Oh Pretty Woman
05. Separate Ways 06. Too Tired 07. Still Got The Blues (For You) 08. Since I Met You Baby
09. The Sky Is Crying 10. Further On Up The Road 11. King Of The Blues 12. Parisienne
Walkways 13. Jumpin' At Shadows Gary Moore - guitar, vocals Tommy Eyre - keyboards
Andy Pyle - bass Graham Walker - drums Martin Drover - trumpet Frank Mead - alto sax, harmonica Nick Pentelow - tenor sax Nick Payn - baritone sax Candy Mackenzie - backing vocals Carol Thompson - backing vocals + Albert Collins – guitar (6)

I can't believe someone said Gary can't sing. I was first attracted to this album three years ago after hearing "Still Got The Blues" on the radio. I was completely taken by both his guitar and his expressive and emotional singing voice. After three years, I still almost tear up listening to him. The song "Still got the blues" alone is worth the price of this CD. Throw in "Story of the blues" and "Separate Ways" and you have a blues classic CD. I love when a really talented guitarist can express strong emotion without words. I like it even better when they have the ability to express the same emotion in their singing. Gary Moore is a master of all that; better than anyone I have ever heard. Listen carefully to any of the songs I mentioned above, and I defy you to say he doesn't express the emotion of the blues better than anyone. --- Patrick E Flanagan, amazon.com download (mp3 @128 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto gett solidfiles bayfiles

Gary Moore - Blues Alive (1993)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 19 January 2015 16:52 - Last Updated Friday, 29 January 2021 14:30

back