"I'd had enough of being a singles artiste, and decided to just play some blues guitar for a while, so I asked Jeff and Graham to join up with myself and Kuma Harada, and I formed «The Blues Agency»."

So, Snowy White formed the touring blues band in 1986 with his old friend Kuma Harada, drummer Jeff Allen, and vocalist/guitarist Graham Bell. For three years the band toured in the UK and Europe and recorded. They released two albums: 1988 «Change My Life » and 1989 «Open for Business» [rereleased under the title «Blues On Me» in certain Countries].

Snowy really enjoyed getting back to his roots and playing twelve bar shuffles again.

"It was nice just to play guitar again for a while and play all my old favorites, but after a couple of years I felt that I needed to stretch out musically again".

So, Snowy White's Blues Agency split in 1990 and all the members, except Graham Bell, went to play with Mick Taylor's All Star Blues Band. --- snowywhitefanclub.com
