Ensemble Sequentia: Women's ensemble: Barbara Thornton (voice), Debra Gomez (voice), Johanna Koslowsky (voice), Suzie Leblanc (voice, direction), Martina Lins (voice), Laurie Monahan (voice), Susanne Norin (voice), Karen Clark Young (voice) Men's ensemble: Benjamin Bagby (voice, direction), Edmund Brownless (voice), Stephen Grant (voice), Eric Mentzel (voice), Bernhard Schneider (voice) Barbara Thornton & Benjamin Bagby - directors

In this second volume of Sequentia's 3-part series Vox Iberica, the ensemble's women's and men's vocal ensembles – 13 singers – join forces to present many of the riches of Spain's most important musical manuscript from a monastic environment (where both women and men sang): the Codex Las Huelgas from Burgos. This source contains all manner of liturgical and paraliturgical song, sung in Latin, from a variety of French and also Spanish origins, including conductus, motet, prosa, organum, planctus (death laments for Spanish kings, and even one for an abbess of Burgos), in one, two and also three voices.
