

Braga Santos - Symphony No.5, op.39 'Virtus Lusitaniae' (Silva Pereira) [1995]

Written by bluesever

Tuesday, 10 May 2016 16:07 -

Braga Santos - Symphony No.5, op.39 'Virtus Lusitaniae' (Silva Pereira) [1995]

01. I - Preludio [0:10:42.47] 02. II - Zavala (Scherzo) [0:04:35.60] 03. III - Largo [0:10:26.03] 04. IV - Allegro energico ed appassionato [0:07:33.15] RDP Symphony Orchestra Silva Pereira – conductor

The fifth symphony dates from 1966 and the composer's late period, when he employed modern techniques such as tone-clusters and masses of mysteriously floating sound. Subtitled Virtus Lusitaniae, it uses a massive percussion section in its very original scherzo which evokes native Mozambiquan music. Its freely expressive and compelling use of orchestral color will have you thinking now of Messiaen, now of Respighi, now of ...? --- recordsinternational.com download (mp3 @320 kbs):

salefiles yandex 4shared mega mediafire zalivalka cloudmailru uplea

back