

Joanne Brackeen - Tring A Ling (1977/2009)

Written by bluesever

Saturday, 06 July 2019 14:22 -

Joanne Brackeen - Tring A Ling (1977/2009)

1 Shadowbrook-Aire 12:08 2 Fi-Fi's Rock 4:35 3 Echoes 9:11 4 Haiti-B 12:39 5 New True Illusions 5:56 6 Tring-A-Ling 6:31 7 New True Illusions 6:10 Bass – Cecil McBee, Clint Houston Drums – Billy Hart Piano – Joanne Brackeen Tenor Saxophone – Mike Brecker

Legendary tenor man Michael Brecker joins pianist Joanne Brackeen on this exceptional recording, together with ace bassists Clint Houston and Cecil McBee along with Billy Hart on drums. Brecker proves to have been a brilliant choice, bringing his inspiration to the session as with the superb contributions of all the skilled participants they interpret Brackeen's quite complex original music with considerable aplomb, rhythmic feel and close interplay.

"I like people with good vibrations who really like to play" says Joanne. "I like groups of people where there really isn't a leader - we didn't have to say anything - we just did it." ---Editorial Reviews

Pianist Joanne Brackeen's fourth recording as a leader was her first to include a horn, but she made a strong choice. Tenor great Michael Brecker is on three of Brackeen's challenging originals, along with alternating bassists Cecil McBee and Clint Houston, plus drummer Billy Hart. The pianist's music is complex and quite tricky, but more accessible than expected due to the close interplay between the superb musicians and the variety of rhythms utilized. Open-minded listeners are advised to check this one out. ---Scott Yanow, AllMusic Review

Joanne Brackeen - Tring A Ling (1977/2009)

Written by bluesever

Saturday, 06 July 2019 14:22 -

download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire ulozto gett bayfiles

back