Enrico Rava, born in Trieste in 1939, is undoubtedly the most internationally acknowledged Italian jazzman. In forty years of his career as trumpet player, and composer, he has produced more than hundred recordings, thirty of which as a leader. Being a great admirer of Miles Davis and Chet Baker, his career started at an early age, when he played in clubs in Turin. In 1962, he meets Gato Barbieri with whom, two years later, he records the soundtrack for Montaldo's film "Una bella grinta". In those years he meets Don Cherry, Mal Waldron and Steve Lacy, with whom he plays free jazz in a quartet alternating between London and Buenos Aires (it is in Argentina in 1966 that the quartet records the album "The Forest and the Zoo"). In 1967 Rava is in New York, where he is introduced into the free avant-garde, among which are Roswell Rudd, Marion Brown, Rashied Ali, Cecil Taylor, Charlie Haden, Marvin Peterson etc.

After an Italian parenthesis, during which he plays with various musicians including Franco D'Andrea and where he records with Lee Konitz in Rome and with Manfred Schoof in Bremen, he returns to New York in 1969, where he lives for eight years. At first he plays mostly with Rudd, Bill Dixon and Carla Bley's Jazz Composer's Orchestra, under whose direction he records "Escalator Over the Hill". Beginning in 1972, when he records his first album as a leader, "Il giro del giorno in 80 mondi", Rava directs quartets (in New York clubs and on tours in Europe and Argentina), nearly always in pianoless groups. The playings and recordings follow one another, in a precious and uninterrupted flow, beside acknowledged Italian, European and American musicians such as Franco D'Andrea, Enrico Pieranunzi, Marcello Melis, Massimo Urbani, Paolo Fresu, Pietro Tonolo, Stefano Bollani, Roberto Gatto, John Abercrombie, Roswell Rudd, Miroslav Vitous, Richard Galliano, J.F. Jenny-Clark, Misha Mengelberg, Dino Saluzzi, Enrico Rava, ur. 20.08.1943 w Trieście we Włoszech. Zafascynowany w latach 60. jazzem nowoorleańskim grywał (na puzonie) w różnych zespołach dixielandowych w Turynie. Zauroczony muzyką Milesa Davisa i charakterystycznym brzmieniem jego trąbki, zdecydował się na zmianę instrumentu. Pierwszą profesjonalną jazzową współpracę nawiązał w (1965 r.) z koncertującymi w Rzymie muzykami amerykańskimi. Najciekawsza okazała się współpraca z saksofonistą Gato Barbierim oraz pianistą Małem Waldronem. Rozpoczął także regularną współpracę (1966-69) z saksofonistą Lee Konitzem. W 1967 r. wraz z saksofonistą Stevem Lacym zagrał pierwsze entuzjastycznie przyjmowane koncerty w Nowym Jorku.

Ważna dla kariery Ravy okazała się także współpraca (koncerty i nagrania) z Roswellem Ruddem, z którym występował w latach 1969-78. Spore uznanie włoski trębacz zdobył w połowie lat 70. koncertując z warsztatową formacją Globe Unity Orchestra. W latach 80. Rava decyduje się na powrót (z Nowego Jorku) do Włoch; zakłada własne zespoły, z których najciekawsze okazały się kwartety z Tonym Oxleyem, Artem Farmerem, Enrico Pieranuzzim, Archiem Sheepem, Naną Vasconcelosem oraz nagrania i koncerty z Donem Cherrym, Charliem Hadenem, Dollarem Brandem, Carlą Bley, Dino Saluzzim, Johnem Abercrombiem.
