

John Coltrane – Giant Steps (1960)

Written by bluesever

Sunday, 18 October 2009 15:33 - Last Updated Thursday, 18 December 2014 14:35

---

John Coltrane – Giant Steps (1960)

1. Giant Steps - 4:47
  2. Cousin Mary - 5:49
  3. Countdown - 2:25
  4. Spiral - 6:00
  5. Syeeda's Song Flute - 7:05
  6. Naima - 4:24
  7. Mr. P.C - 7:02
  8. Giant Steps [Alternate Take]
  9. Naima [Alternate Take]
  10. Cousin Mary [Alternate Take]
  11. Countdown [Alternate Take]
  12. Syeeda's Song Flute [Alternate Take]
- John Coltrane — tenor saxophone   Tommy Flanagan — piano   Wynton Kelly — piano
(6)   Paul Chambers — bass   Art Taylor — drums   Jimmy Cobb — drums (6)   Cedar Walton — piano (8,9)   Lex Humphries — drums (8,9)

History will undoubtedly enshrine this disc as a watershed the likes of which may never truly be appreciated. Giant Steps bore the double-edged sword of furthering the cause of the music as well as delivering it to an increasingly mainstream audience. Although this was John Coltrane's debut for Atlantic, he was concurrently performing and recording with Miles Davis. Within the space of less than three weeks, Coltrane would complete his work with Davis and company on another genre-defining disc, Kind of Blue, before commencing his efforts on this one. Coltrane (tenor sax) is flanked by essentially two different trios. Recording commenced in early May of 1959 with a pair of sessions that featured Tommy Flanagan (piano) and Art Taylor (drums), as well as Paul Chambers -- who was the only bandmember other than Coltrane to have performed on every date. When recording resumed in December of that year, Wynton Kelly (piano) and Jimmy Cobb (drums) were instated -- replicating the lineup featured on Kind of Blue, sans Miles Davis of course. At the heart of these recordings, however, is the laser-beam focus of Coltrane's tenor solos. All seven pieces issued on the original Giant Steps are likewise

John Coltrane – Giant Steps (1960)

Written by bluesever

Sunday, 18 October 2009 15:33 - Last Updated Thursday, 18 December 2014 14:35

---

Coltrane compositions. He was, in essence, beginning to rewrite the jazz canon with material that would be centered on solos -- the 180-degree antithesis of the art form up to that point. These arrangements would create a place for the solo to become infinitely more compelling. This would culminate in a frenetic performance style that noted jazz journalist Ira Gitler accurately dubbed "sheets of sound." Coltrane's polytonal torrents extricate the amicable and otherwise cordial solos that had begun decaying the very exigency of the genre -- turning it into the equivalent of easy listening. He wastes no time as the disc's title track immediately indicates a progression from which there would be no looking back. Line upon line of highly cerebral improvisation snake between the melody and solos, practically fusing the two. The resolute intensity of "Countdown" does more to modernize jazz in 141 seconds than many artists do in their entire careers. Tellingly, the contrasting and ultimately pastoral "Naima" was the last tune to be recorded, and is the only track on the original long-player to feature the Kind of Blue quartet. What is lost in tempo is more than recouped in intrinsic melodic beauty. Both Giant Steps [Deluxe Edition] and the seven-disc Heavyweight Champion: The Complete Atlantic Recordings offer more comprehensive presentations of these sessions. ---Lindsay Planer, Rovi download (mp3 @320 kbs):

uploaded yandex 4shared mega solidfiles zalivalka cloudmailru filecloudio oboom

back