According to JML's website: "...I got a phone call from Claude asking if I could be jamming that evening with Billy Cobham... The opening act...couldn't make their flight from Canada, and Claude needed a 'replacement'. I hadn't seen Billy for 25 years and immediately liked the idea. Claude called Billy, who lives in Bern and he also was happy to play. I didn't have my guitar, and there was no rehearsal, it was a very spontaneous jam and we had lots of fun!"

The source of this recording was uploaded in August 2008 by overendwatts (thanks a lot!), who took it from another site. The original source is a bootleg CD made from a very nice-sounding sbd, which however has one major problem throughout: a crackling noise that appears with higher levels, mostly in the drums and Santana's guitar. This is not too difficult to remedy with the appropriate software (ProTools LE with various pro-level plug-ins). In order not to degrade the audio unnecessarily, I applied three different levels of filtering and reassembled the music from the three versions according to my ears, always choosing the one with just as much filtering as necessary to remove the noise. I manually removed a few minor glitches and, lastly, did a pitch correction (from 38 to 48 cent on CD 1, 52 cent on CD 2), the original source running slightly flat. This is an amazing performance (check out Mr. Cobham's drumming!) Enjoy !! --- drfusion.blogspot.com
