

Mel Torme – Sunday in New York and Other Songs About New York (1963)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 19 October 2009 15:24 - Last Updated Thursday, 05 February 2015 09:59

Mel Torme – Sunday in New York and Other Songs About New York (1963)

01) Sunday In New York 02) Autumn In New York 03) Lullaby Of Broadway 04) Broadway
05) Brooklyn Bridge 06) Let Me Off Uptown 07) Forty Second Street 08) Sidewalks Of New York 09) Harlem Nocturne 10) New York, New York 11) There's A Broken Heart For Every Light On Broadway 12) Manhattan 13) My Time Of Day Mel Tormé - vocals Johnny Williams: arranged and conducted tracks # 1,4,6,8 Dick Hazard: arranged and conducted tracks # 2,7,9,12 Shorty Rodgers: arranged and conducted tracks # 3,5,10,11

After taking a host of potshots at the Big Apple on his 1949 Left Coast opus California Suite, Mel Tormé repents via Sunday in New York and Other Songs About New York, a buoyant, genuinely affectionate Gotham tribute that effortlessly captures the city's sophistication and energy. While entries like "Lullaby of Broadway" and "Forty Second Street" pay homage to the theatrical tradition, Tormé largely favors songs that document the everyday poetry of New York life, evoking with jazzy aplomb the rhythms of a people and place in perpetual motion. ---Jason Ankeny, Rovi download (mp3 @192kbs):

uploaded yandex 4shared mega gett solidfiles zalivalka cloudmailru filecloudio o boom

Mel Torme – Sunday in New York and Other Songs About New York (1963)

Written by bluesever

Monday, 19 October 2009 15:24 - Last Updated Thursday, 05 February 2015 09:59

back