6 ans après Juste avant et 4 ans après la parenthèse enchantée Entre deux, Patrick Bruel revient à la création originale et signe la quasi intégralité des textes et compositions d'un nouvel album d'une grande intensité émotionnelle. Entre tradition de chanson française et pop anglaise, l'artiste réussit avec justesse à faire cohabiter intimité et dimension sociale. L'honnêteté dans le propos, la sincérité dans l'interprétation, sans faute de goût ni faux semblants, Patrick dévoile un quotidien jamais voyeur puisque c'est aussi le nôtre. Il aborde chaque chanson comme autant de tranches de vie. De l'intime de sa vie aux désordres du monde, entre espoir et inquiétude, le père qu'il est devenu, l'amoureux, le fils, le citoyen se dévoilent en musique.

Although Bruel aspired to be a football (soccer) star as a youth, he decided to pursue singing after seeing Michel Sardou in 1975. His first success came as an actor, however, in 1979's Le Coup de sirocco. He continued acting in films, on television and in the theater while pursuing his singing career. His first single, "Vide" ("Empty"), released in 1982, was not a success, but the follow up, "Marre de cette nana-là" ("Fed up with that chick"), was a hit.

In 2003, he had his last name officially changed to Bruel-Benguigui, his stage name with his birthname, before his partner, the writer and playwright, Amanda Sthers gave birth to his first child, Oscar, on August 19. On September 21, 2004, he wed the 24-year-old Sthers; it is his first marriage. His second child, Léon Bruel was born on the 28th September, 2005. The couple separated in 2007.

As of 2004 Bruel has acted in more than 40 different television and film productions and made five studio albums and several live albums. In 2002 Bruel released Entre Deux, a double CD of classic chanson that features duets with Charles Aznavour, Jean-Louis Aubert, Jean-Jacques Goldman, Alain Souchon and Renaud, among others. It sold two million copies and made Bruel France's best paid singer of the year. At the beginning of 2005, in response to the South Asian tsunami of December 26, 2004, Bruel wrote the song "Et puis la terre" to benefit the Red Cross. His latest album "Des souvenir devant" was his 4th charttopper in France.
