The AOL Sessions is a special avenue of programming conducted by AOL Music. Originally an AOL exclusive, it can now also be seen as an avenue for non-AOL users as well. The sessions consists of exclusive and intimate (often acoustic or stripped down) performances of songs by popular musicians. Many artists also conduct interviews with the band member or performer. Audio performances from the session are often released as live performances on the commercial singles of artists or as exclusive downloads at the iTunes Store. The program aired on Fuse TV beginning in 2003 but has since stopped. Gaga's AOL Sessions was not put on iTunes, but you can watch it AOL Music. It also has the same cover as the single for "Eh, Eh (Nothing Else I Can Say)". ---ladygaga.wikia.com
