A folk-pop singer, songwriter, and guitarist with a knack for writing melodic and narrative songs that aren't afraid to move into deeper territory than the typical pop song, Lily Kershaw was born and grew up in the Los Angeles, California region. Her public breakthrough came when one of her songs, "As It Seems," was featured in the season seven finale of the popular CBS television series Criminal Minds in 2012. A second song, "Ashes Like Snow," was again featured prominently in the eighth season finale of the show a year later, which led to Kershaw signing a recording contract with Nettwerk Records. Her debut album, Midnight in the Garden, appeared in the fall of 2013. In early 2018, Kershaw released a string of singles, "Party Meds," "Another," and "All of the Love in the World," ahead of the arrival of the Los Angeles EP, which arrived later that May, again via Nettwerk. ---Steve Leggett, allmusic.com
