The HeadCat was formed as a result of an Elvis Presley tribute album called 'Swing Cats' that was issued in 2000. The story goes that after completing the recordings in the studio Lemmy Kilmister picked up an acoustic guitar and started playing some classics by the likes of Johnny Cash, Buddy Holly and Eddie Cochran. The rest of the guys, Danny B. Harvey and Slim Jim Phantom, were all too familiar with these tunes and they spoke of recording an album together. In 2000 their debut album was released under the title 'Lemmy, Slim Jim & Danny B'. The album went virtually unnoticed, not because it wasn't any good, but because of a label who didn't get behind the album. After a few years of touring the United States, in 2006 their debut album was re-issued under the proper band name of The HeadCat with the title of 'Fool's Paradise'. --- sleazeroxx.com
