Phil Sunkel - Jazz Concerto Grosso Feat. Gerry Mulligan & Bob Brookmeyer (1956 – 57)

01 - Jazz Concerto Grosso (Phil Sunkel) 02 - Something For The Ladies (Phil Sunkel) 03 - Song For Cornet (Phil Sunkel)   Line-up: New York City, May 13 & 29, and June 14, 1956 (1)   Phil Sunkel, Al Stewart, Siggy Shatz, trumpets;   Gene Hessler, trombone;   Dick Meldonian, alto sax;   Buddy Arnold, tenor sax;   Gene Allen, baritone sax;   George Syran, piano;   Bob Petersen, bass;   Harold Granowsky, drums.   New York, October 15, 1957 (2)   Phil Sunkel, cornet;   John Wilson, fluegelhorn;   Bob Brookmeyer, valve trombone;   Jim Reider, tenor sax;   Gerry Mulligan, baritone sax;   Wendell Marshal, bass;   Harold Granowsky, drums.   New York, October 14, 1957 (3)   Phil Sunkel, cornet;   Nick Travis, Al Stewart, Don Stratton, John Wilson, trumpets;   Frank Rehak, trombone;   Bob Brookmeyer, valve trombone;   Eddie Bert, bass trombone;   Don Butterfield, tuba;   Dick Meldonian, alto sax;   Cliff Hoff, Bill Slapin, tenor saxes;   Gerry Mulligan, Gene Allen, baritone saxes;   Milt Hinton, bass;   Osie Johnson, drums.

Phil Sunkel, cornet and trumpet player, was born in 1925 in Zanesville, Ohio. He played with the Claude Thornhill, Charlie Barnet, Stan Getz, Sauter-Finegan, Gerry Mulligan, Gil Evans and Tito Rodriguez bands. Leaving his role as a soloist aside, Phil mainly stood out as an arranger and composer of talent, being these recordings his most celebrated works and the only ones he did as a leader.

"MY idea of a jazzband," he said "is something between a small combo and a big band incorporating the good features of both. Here we have the flexibility of a small group which allows the soloist a maximum of freedom, plus the color and drama produced by the different ensemble sounds."

The further possibilities of using a three voice group superimposed on a similarly conceived orchestral backdrop originated Sunkel's most ambitious and outstanding work: Jazz Concerto Grosso.

download: uploaded   4shared   ziddu   gett   hostuje   mediafire   anonfiles

Phil Sunkel - Jazz Concerto Grosso Feat. Gerry Mulligan & Bob Brookmeyer (1956 – 57)

Wpisany przez bluesever
Piątek, 12 Kwiecień 2013 16:00 -

back

Phil Sunkel - Jazz Concerto Grosso Feat. Gerry Mulligan & Bob Brookmeyer (1956 – 57)

Wpisany przez bluesever
Piątek, 12 Kwiecień 2013 16:00 -

back