

Dufay Collective - A Dance In The Garden Of Mirth (1994)

Wpisany przez bluesever

Poniedziałek, 07 Luty 2011 09:24 - Zmieniony Poniedziałek, 17 Luty 2014 22:00

Dufay Collective - A Dance In The Garden Of Mirth (1994)

- 1 - Istanpitta 'Ghaetta'
- 2 - (La prime estampie real)
- 3 - La uitime estampie real
- 4 - La seconde estampie royal play
- 5 - La tierche estampie roial
- 6 - Danse
- 7 - Retrove
- 8 - Troto - Salterello
- 9 - La quinte estampie real
- 10 - Istanpitta 'Belicha'
- 11 - Istanpitta 'Isabella'
- 12 - Saltarello play

Dufay Collective:

William Lyons, Giles Lewin, Raphael Mizraki,
Susanna Pell, Paul Bevan

While it undoubtedly is genuine medieval music, it doesn't sound like what you might expect. It reminds me more of something you would hear in an Arab marketplace or bazaar. Alternating notes played on a recorder until it drives you crazy. Many of the songs are rather similar (i.e. bad) and in my opinion it's a big disappointment. I had hoped for something to play at our medieval feasts and SCA re-enactments, but this doesn't make the grade at all. –Jean P. Lestrale

DuFay Collective are, in a word, brilliant, basically the Pink Martini of the music of the period. Their music never fails to transport you back in time. However, for the most part, medieval

Dufay Collective - A Dance In The Garden Of Mirth (1994)

Wpisany przez bluesever

Poniedziałek, 07 Luty 2011 09:24 - Zmieniony Poniedziałek, 17 Luty 2014 22:00

music isn't something you plug into the CD player on long drives between cities. This album is an exception. The focus is on medieval dance music of France, England and Italy, and the pieces are light-hearted and "catchy" enough to keep me entertained on replay for hours at a time. There are no vocals to speak of in any of these pieces, but the degree of excellence in each performer's command of their instrument is patently obvious. –EguesNiger download: uploaded yandex 4shared mediafire solidfiles mega filecloudio

back