Identity (2016) by Helen Jane Long is a masterpiece by a gifted artist. As the CD says: "Composed, arranged & produced by Helen Jane Long."

I listen as I work and rest. My work is in the area of the language arts, as a teacher and poet. I do not know the technical language of music, to be able to fully describe all that Helen Jane Long and The London Players achieve with Identity.

Her music has so much depth and breadth. There is an emotional quality, an empathy, that inspires me to listen often; as I remember my parents, for example. I imagine that people of all ages can appreciate her music, which is a great blessing now in my life.

Beautiful and excellent art. Thank you. ---Ellen Grace Olinger, amazon.com

Helen Jane Long is an award-winning film composer whose musicology brings indie culture to classical and soundtrack music. This one-time Warner Bros. composer left it all behind to create her own record label, publishing company and destiny. Her signature sound is cinematic classical and she's kicking and dragging it into the future with her stunning fourth release, "Identity".

Her new album, Identity, marks yet another shift in her composing career as she sets out to take listeners on a musical exploration of the things that make us individuals among humanity. Composed over the course of a year, Identity marks a move toward a bigger sound as she embraces the full richness of soundtrack composition folded into her uniquely intimate melodies. The highly anticipated fourth album releases worldwide on April 11, 2016.

Enormously talented, extraordinarily kind and exceptionally engaged in the processes of composing and performing, it's obvious that no matter which lens you view Helen Jane Long through, certain things remain crystal clear. Her life long devotion to her music, development of her craft, and dedication to her process has spawned music that enhances and illuminates the world around her. ---bandcamp.com
