

Eddie Vedder – Ukulele Songs (2011)

Wpisany przez bluesever

Wtorek, 28 Czerwiec 2011 18:36 - Zmieniony Środa, 31 Styczeń 2018 09:21

Eddie Vedder – Ukulele Songs (2011)

01. Can't Keep 02. Sleeping By Myself 03. Without You 04. More Than You Know 05. Goodbye play 06. Broken Heart 07. Satellite play 08. Longing To Belong 09. Hey Fakhah 10. You're True 11. Light Today 12. Sleepless Nights 13. Once In Awhile 14. Waving Palms 15. Tonight You Belong To Me 16. Dream A Little Dream

Eddie Vedder - Ukulele, Vocals, Producer Chris Worswick - Cello (tracks: 8) Chan Marshall - Vocals (tracks: 15) Glen Hansard - Vocals (tracks: 12)

There is no irony in the title of Eddie Vedder's first full-fledged solo album: these are indeed songs performed on a ukulele, an instrument uncommon but not unknown to rockers. George Harrison was a well-known advocate of the small four-string instrument, and Vedder's hero Pete Townshend once cut a lovely little gem called "Blue Red and Grey" on ukulele, a song that could easily slide onto this gently ramshackle collection of covers, re-recordings, and new tunes. To say that this is a minor album is to dismiss its intimacy and miss its appeal: Vedder's self-imposed curse is that he takes everything very seriously indeed, so to hear him without the weight of the world on his shoulders is disarmingly inviting. He has nothing more in mind on Ukulele Songs than singing, whether it's with duet partners Glen Hansard and Cat Power or just on his own, tossing out love songs, something he generally has avoided with Pearl Jam. Vedder never has been ashamed of his bleeding heart -- it's something that grounds Pearl Jam even when they're in full-blast bombast mode -- yet it's refreshing to have a record where that heart is pushed toward the center, beating fully and proudly on his lightest, sweetest album yet.

---Stephen Thomas Erlewine, AllMusic Review

download (mp3 @320 kbs):

yandex mediafire uloz.to gett

Eddie Vedder – Ukulele Songs (2011)

Wpisany przez bluesever

Wtorek, 28 Czerwiec 2011 18:36 - Zmieniony Środa, 31 Styczeń 2018 09:21

back